Dear Senator Fasano and Representative Klarides:

Raising taxes at a time that Ct's economy is on the borderline of recession is the wrong move. People are already struggling week to week trying to make ends meet and the government is sucking any remaining disposable income from their paychecks that haven't kept pace with the cost of living. You've tried taxing the people to death and look where it's gotten the state. Try cutting spending and you might just see the American economic engine take off. Let the people of the state keep more of their own money and you might then see business come back to the state. Keep on the same path and all you're going to see are more deficits and a bigger gap between the rich and the poor. The Private sector is taxed to the hilt!
